NOTES FROM THE PASTOR

In December we start our season of Advent, the beginning of the church liturgical year. We settle in and await the coming of our savior in the innocence of a little baby at Christmas. We start to reflect on 2024 and look in anticipation to 2025.

During November we heard from members of the church council in "temple talks" at the beginning of worship. They shared about our financial situation and why they give to this ministry. We then had many people pledge their tithing amounts looking forward.

So let us ponder together: what keeps you coming back? Why do you give money to Faith? Why do you support this church with your time and talents? What is church for you? What is most meaningful in your experience of this church? And if you feel called, share this with another person or with me.

These might seem like big questions, but we need to keep asking them as we seriously look into the future of this congregation. What will the church, this church and Christianity look like in the next few years? I hope that Jesus is present, I hope that you are present, I hope that communities still gather in the name of radical love of neighbor. God is good.
